

Boreskov Institute of Catalysis of the Siberian Branch of the Russian Academy of Sciences
Director Academician Valery I. Bukthiyarov

Dear Professor Valery I. Bukthiyarov

We have been honoured and pleased by your invitation to attend as honourable guests at the celebration of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the prestigious, world-renowned and leading Boreskov Institute for Catalysis of the Siberian Branch of the Russian Academy of Sciences. We congratulate you on the Jubilee of your Institute, for which we want a further successful development and prosperity.

Please pass our sincere gratitude to the leaders and associates of the Boreskov Institute of Catalysis for what they have done in organization, implementation and affirmation of today's prestigious Conferences of Fundamental and Applied Physical Chemistry. We are particularly pleased not only in establishing scientific cooperation but also with the sincere friendship of our and your associates.

Let's remember how it came to cooperation. Our invitation to cooperation is sincerely and strongly supported by Academician Valentin Nikolaevich Parmon. And not only that! Moreover, professor Parmon has helped us to publish in Special issues of the Russian Journal of Physical Chemistry A dedicated to the original scientific works inspired by the presentations shown at the mentioned Conferences, for which we are immensely grateful.

Unfortunately, from personal reasons, I will not be able to attend your Celebration. I honestly applauded your desire and hoped and planned to come to Novosibirsk with my wife, Professor Ljiljana Kolar-Anić. What's more, as soon as I received your invitation, I have currently booked Aeroflot's airplane tickets, but unfortunately I had to cancel them. I hope that there will still be a chance to meet on future Jubilees.

A lot of sincere and greetings,

Professor Slobodan Anić

President of Society of Physical Chemists of Serbia